

STYLEPHILE

Domestic Product

The national spotlight shines on a seasoned designer's impeccable taste.

INTERIOR DESIGNER Julie Browning Bova blogs and tweets about her inspirations nearly every day, and between the horse barns and Palm Beach interiors, the Ralph Lauren and the J. Crew, and the quotes from Chanel and Kid Rock, we found ourselves dying to know more. As it turns out, it was a good time to ask—her first branded furniture line debuted in April at the industry's spring market in High Point, North Carolina. The 37-piece collection for Stanford Furniture includes dining, bedroom, and upholstered furnishings, some with equestrian overtones, a nod to Bova's passion for horseback riding. Impressed by her eye for beauty, we asked the mother of four to reveal the things she can't live without. —MEGAN FERNANDEZ

BOVA'S FAVORITE THINGS

BOND NO. 9 PERFUME

"I was running through a building at a High Point market last year when a lady stopped me and said, 'May I ask what fragrance you're wearing?' I said, 'Bond!' She said, 'As in ... James?' And I just smiled and said, 'Yes, James.' I wish I'd had a sample. Bond No. 9 is so generous with samples."

WIM PAUWELS DESIGN BOOKS

"I own most of Pauwels's books. Timeless Renovations has incredible pictures of a diverse range of properties—a country

PAIRS OF CHAIRS

"I am a chairaholic. It's a problem. At last count, at home I had 59 plus one. Okay, 60. I try to part with them, and then I just re-cover. And if there is a pair, it is a bit like shoes. They both come home."

estate, a neoclassical castle, an apartment. All complete restorations. I adore the connection of the old and new and all the innovation behind the architecture."

BOOTS

"For me, they are really great on the jobsite. The Indiana weather is so unpredictable, and these construction sites can feel like a meat locker in the heat of summer. I wear Hunter boots all year long. I love the unique details of the handmade Siren boots by Mark Nason and the simply perfect Prada tall embroidered boots, and I have very unusual tall Chanel hunting boots. But no favorite."

◀ WANT TO BUY IT?

The Tack Ottoman, part of the Julie Browning Bova Home Collection for Stanford Furniture. The line is available to the design trade.